

LABOR DAY PROCLAMATION.

Governor Ansel Urges that Business be Suspended on September 7.

Governor Martin F. Ansel has issued the following proclamation for Labor Day which this year will be on September 7:

Whereas, the legislature of South Carolina has set apart the first Monday in September of each year as a legal holiday, and conforming with the legislative action, and in cheerful compliance, I, M. F. Ansel, governor of the State of South Carolina, do hereby recommend that the day above named, being the 7th day of September, 1908, and Labor Day, be set apart to be observed in such manner and by such ceremonies as may be appropriate.

I recommend that, in so far as it is practicable, factories, stores, offices and other places wherein labor is employed be closed, so that every working man and woman may be given an opportunity to enjoy the day and to participate in the exercises that may be held, and that the day be observed and celebrated by employers and employees and all who feel an interest in their country's welfare.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the great seal of the State to be affixed hereto, on the 18th day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand, nine hundred and eight, and in the one hundred and thirty-third year of the independence of the United States.

M. F. Ansel, Governor.
By the Governor: R. M. McCown, Secretary of State.

WILL TAKE CARE OF HIMSELF.

Tillman Says His Hard Work is Over And Quotes Fable of Mule and Lion.

Paris.—Senator Tillman, of South Carolina, accompanied by Mrs. Tillman, is on his first visit to Paris. While making the classic trip from the Madeleine to the Place de la Bastille on the top of a bus, he observed the collection of the beggars which, he remarked, might be called the Pennsylvania Avenue of Paris.

"We already have been to South Carolina," said Mr. Tillman, "where I learned just enough of the Spanish and Italian languages to mix with my people. I discovered I don't know one of the three. I am going back to it."

Referring to the presidential election Senator Tillman said: "I shall do no work in the campaign, as my health will not permit it. Moreover, in the future, I shall not do very much hard work. I am improving and must take care of myself. I shall observe the precept of the fable writer, paraphrased a little, to the effect that a live mule is better than a dead lion."
